New Type Pulpwood Machine In Appomattox

May Add "Pallet Loader"

Western "Tree Farmer" Helps Local Men Harvest Pulpwood

H. M. ("Pi") Stanley, Jr., and Bill Stanley have adopted a woods operation of the Pacific Northwest to their own pulpwood operation in Piedmont, Va.

Bill, of Appomattox, and Pi, of Gladstone, teamed up as pulpwood cutters several years ago. About three months ago they added a revolutionary machine to their operation. It's the "Garrett Tree Farmer" which cleans a path through the woods with a front blade — then skids the logs back to a central loading point with four stout cables which can haul as much as 5,000 pounds of wood at a time.

Up to this point Bill and Pi had been loading from the stump, first into single axle trucks alone —and then a combination of older single axle trucks in the woods and two tandem axle trucks to haul the load to market.

With the Garrett Tree Farmer they now handle the wood just once. They report that the Tree Farmer is more economical than a crawler type tractor with far less maintenance. The crew works faster since there's no double handling. Upkeep of older woods trucks has been eliminated, and most important of all, they haven't lost a single day's work because of rain or snow soaked ground.

A Garrett Dealership

Impressed with the Garrett Tree Farmer's ability to skid full loads under all types of conditions, the Stanleys have become dealers for the machine, manufactured by Garrett-Enomclaw Co., Enumclaw, Washington.

Industrial foresters visiting this operation say that it has the makings of one of the most efficient operations in the state and is probably the only one of its type in Virginia. Now Bill and Pi are thinking about adding another Tree Farmer and a pallet system to their trucks.

Pallets for Faster Marking

With "pallets", the woodsmen load up their wood; then slide the pallet full of wood onto a waiting flat bed truck which takes off for market. By the time the truck returns, another "pallet" is filled — so that one hauling truck does the work of two. Turnaround time is reduced from one hour to approximately 15 minutes per load.

It's a long way from the cascades of Washington to the Piedmont of Virginia, but for the pulpwood or sawlog operator willing to make the step, the Stanleys have proved that it is the difference between a submarginal operation and a profitable business.

State 4-H Club Short Course

Last year on June 25-30 I had the privilege to attend State 4-H Short Course. I think this was a highlight in my years of club work. This was a week packed full of fun. In the mornings you attend classes of your choice and the afternoon is full of sports and entertainment, such as Share the Fun Contest, softball, volleyball, swimming and many more. I met new friends and outstanding 4-H Club members. This is a trip well worth working for. I would encourage all young 4-H'ers to use 4-H Short Course as a goal to work for. It is well worth the work. I really enjoyed it.

TIMES FARM NEWS

Farm Records — are becoming more important each year. Internal Revenue Service officials will be taking a closer look at returns. They are also the foundation of effective farm management decisions. Farm record books and inventory record books may be had from this office.

The Fall Pig Crop is pegged at 44.5 million, up 5 per cent from 1961 and 19 per cent over the '51 — 60 average. Total '62 production was up 15 at 94.2 million head. Some economist are saying that 1963 will be a "near normal" year. Prices should show an upswing in late spring or early summer.

Seed Supplies for some crops will be in short supply. Some corn varieties have already been exhausted. Check your needs early for there is a great deal of difference in yielding ability and disease resistance among varieties. Two aids in making selection are: (1) field crop varieties for Virginia Southern Piedmont; (2) evaluation of forage crop varieties in Virginia. Both publications are available at the county agent's office.

All signs indicate that American Beef Cattle will contain an average of 363.5 pounds of meat this year — 290 pounds of beef, 63.7 pounds of pork, 4.5 pounds of lamb and 5.3 pounds of veal.

It's about that time of year for gardening fever to affect many of us. Probably the most important single factor that will determine whether we have a garden is careful planning now. Group vegetables that will mature at about the same time. This permits use of this same soil later in the year. Plan seed and fertilizer needs prior to growing year.

If soil hasn't been tested in the past two to three years, have a test made. Generally, we feel an application of twenty to twenty - five pounds of 10 - 10 - 10 fertilizer per thousand square feet will be adequate for most vegetable needs.

Does your garden include strawberries or asparagus? Now is a good time to plan to secure plants and crowns from a reliable grower.

There are publications that can assist most gardeners at the county agent's office — Starting Early Plants, Sawdust as a Mulch, Plastic Greenhouses and Vegetable Gardening in Virginia.

Grape Pruning Time is here. Vines that have not been pruned should be, within the next month. A winter spray should be applied at the same time. Good sanitation will eliminate many diseases and insect problems next summer.

American Farmers — only 8 per cent of the total population — pumped a whopping 4.2 billion dollars into the nation's economy last year. USDA Statistics show farmers spend about 27 billion dollars annually to run their business. Another 15 billion dollars go for things we all buy — items ranging from TV sets to vacation trips and college education. Farm people buy 13 per cent of the petroleum produced in the United States, more than any other single industry; 8 per cent of the rubber — enough to put tires on every car that rolls off an American assembly line; about five million pounds of steel — twice that which the entire railroad industry purchases.

American farmers used more electricity than is consumed by the cities of Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, Detroit and Houston collectively.
